

CRILLY TELLS OF DIVE TO 300 FEET AND NEW RECORD

Man Who Set New World's Mark Declares Under-Sea Picture Is Beautiful—Light Enough to Take Photographs at Great Depth—In Hawaiian Waters Divers Can Go Deeper

What does it look like 300 feet below the surface of the sea, off Honolulu harbor, where the fearless divers of the navy are working on the salvage of the submarine F-4?

What sort of a bottom is it out there?

What are a diver's sensations when he goes deeper beneath the sea than any living man ever previously explored?

These are some of the questions asked Frank Crilly the other day and when Crilly answered, he spoke from personal knowledge. Crilly is the man who went down 300 feet and definitely located the F-4. He is also the man who a few days later went down 220 feet and rescued his fellow-diver, W. F. Loughman.

According to Crilly, it's a wonderful picture 300 feet under the sea off the Honolulu harbor. It is not a dark, muddy, gloomy place, as many people's fancy has undoubtedly pictured it, but a colored world of clean beauty. He says it was light enough there the day he descended—a day of bright sunshine and calm sea—to take photographs.

Crilly is essentially a modest young fellow—so in fact are all the divers. They regard their exploits as "all in the day's work," as both Crilly and Drellishak have phrased it. When Crilly described his world's record dive the other day, he said little about himself except in answer to questions. He gives large credit for his feat to the mates up above who supplied him with air, talked with him over the telephone contrivance and brought him up slowly and carefully.

Could Go Even Deeper.

A slight man—physically is Crilly—lightly-built but wiry and with plenty of pluck and courage. He is 31 years old, weighs 130 pounds. Yet with all his slender build, he declares the pressure 300 feet below the surface did not bother him.

"I don't know how deep a man could go in these waters—perhaps 500 feet," he comments.

He was asked to describe his 300-foot dive, and with the questions of the interviewer omitted, here is the story:

"I never dived under such splendid conditions or in such wonderful waters as off Honolulu. On the east coast the water is dark, sometimes so black you have to feel with your hands, and the bottom is muddy, but through this beautiful water it is like passing a wonderful picture.

"Sensations? Well, I didn't have many. I knew I was going to get down to that submarine because off Race Rock, Conn., Drellishak had gone down 274 feet, and I knew that I could go 300 or better here. So could any of the boys.

Pretty Beach Far Under Sea.

"I got on the cable and went down without any trouble whatever. It's easy to go down on the cable and doesn't make you any trouble as long as you keep your lines straight. I kept looking up a good deal to see that the lines didn't foul and slid down the cable very fast. Before I got to the bottom—25 to 35 feet, I should say—I could see it, and a beautiful place it is—a beach as pretty as any beach I ever saw, clean white sand, with little ripples made by the water. This beach sloped up at quite an angle and right there lay the F-4 on her side. The water was so clear that I could see her full length. Yes, it's clear enough and light enough down there to take pictures if there was any way of getting the kodak down in an open chamber, as Williamson does in the Bermudas.

"When you look up, at that depth the water is light green but when you look down it's a clear, deep blue—one of the most marvellous things I ever saw. There's no weeds down there, no vegetation, no fish of any kind. Nothing but white sand, like the slope of a hill.

"The cable I was on led under the F-4's stern and I worked around until I could get on top of her. The divers who followed me went down other cables and were able to land square on top of the F-4.

Not Nervous at Depths.

"I wasn't nervous about it, because I was sure my lines were all right and there was no danger from that, and then Mr. Stillson up above was looking out for me and wouldn't let me stay down very long. I got an idea of the lay of the lines and so forth and then went up again. Of course it was a long time before I reached the top because of the care used in raising a man from these depths. I was glad to know that at last we had reached the F-4 and located her and would soon be raising her to the top. That's the job we came from Brooklyn to do and our personal feelings didn't count. It's in the day's work.

"Only a medical man can tell just how deep a diver can go here, for it depends upon his ability to stand the decompression changes. But I am sure that I can make 500 feet in these waters with the lines all clear and no diagonal cables to worry over.

"On a job of this kind the diver so long as he is going up or coming down or moving around on the bottom, is too busy to think of danger. He has to watch his lines too closely or make observations. I think one of the things that struck me was the quiet, beautiful beach so far under the water and this submarine stretched out on it.

All the Boys Can Do It Too.

"What I did say of the boys can do. Every man of them is anxious to do his duty and take his turn. I happened to be called on to make the first descent and to go deeper than the others.

"The deepest I had gone before on a dive of this kind was about 135 feet. I have been diving since 1905, some of the time in very cold water on the other coast. All the boys are glad we are succeeding on this salvage job because it's about the hardest ever tackled."

Crilly is a married man, his wife living in the East. Drellishak, as has already been told, is a bridegroom, having been married just before he came west to board the Maryland and sail for Honolulu.

JAPAN'S NEW LIST OF DEMANDS ELIMINATES OBJECTIONABLE POINTS

Police Supervision, Retention of Tsingtau and Mining Concessions are Ceded Items

[Associated Press by Federal Wireles]
PEKING, China, April 27.—Minister Hsiki presented a new draft of the Japanese demands, which now number 24 articles, instead of the original 21.

The present draft eliminates the former clauses contained in the so-called group five, which stipulated that Japanese officers should have supervision over the Chinese police force and exacted mining concessions in the Han-Yen-Ping district.

There is also a provision that if China gives her assent without delay the captured stronghold of Tsingtau, which Germany held on a lease running 99 years, and which Japan took over with all the German rights, will be placed on the footing of Shanghai.

After luncheon the congressional party visited the exposition and the Hawaii building. All the San Francisco papers gave the arrival of the party an attractive front page display, with conspicuous mention of the fact that it was bound for Hawaii.

At a banquet given last night in the New York building by Senator-elect James D. Phelan, Uncle Joe Cannon kept his promise, made when San Francisco and New Orleans were competing before Congress for the Panama exposition.

Uncle Joe said then that if the fair went to San Francisco he would dance a waltz, if he lived, and last night he made good his word.

As one of the after-dinner speakers, Senator Warren of Wyoming said in part:

"The new military bill to be introduced at the coming session of Congress will provide for shorter enlistments and will permit officers to retire on a small allowance, subject to a call to the colors."

From the railroads on Hawaii the territory received the following amounts from taxes from 1895 to 1912 inclusive: 1895, $94,789.57; 1896, $138,415.79; 1897, $152,090.97; 1898, $158,537.21; 1899, $197,856.19; 1900, $247,381.84; 1901, $261,158.93; 1902, $251,775.80; 1903, $283,299.78; 1904, $266,062.48; 1905, $281,032.89; 1906, $264,625.67; 1907, $254,261.95; 1908, $266,023.38; 1909, $292,816.29; 1910, $300,200.18; 1911, $308,168.05; 1912, $393,415.29.

TAX EXEMPTION FOR HILO LINE IS RECOMMENDED

Ways and Means Committee of Senate Favors Bill to Aid the Railroad Company

The ways and means committee of the senate yesterday reported recommending the passage of House Bill 245, which relates to the exemption of a railroad (the Hilo Railroad Company) from taxation for a period of five years.

In presenting the report Senator Rice stated that the railroad now is in a state of reorganization, and that to exempt it from the payment of taxes for a period of five years will help put it on its feet. To keep the railroad going, he added, will be a great thing for the Big Island.

From the railroads on Hawaii the territory received the following amounts from taxes from 1895 to 1912 inclusive: 1895, $94,789.57; 1896, $138,415.79; 1897, $152,090.97; 1898, $158,537.21; 1899, $197,856.19; 1900, $247,381.84; 1901, $261,158.93; 1902, $251,775.80; 1903, $283,299.78; 1904, $266,062.48; 1905, $281,032.89; 1906, $264,625.67; 1907, $254,261.95; 1908, $266,023.38; 1909, $292,816.29; 1910, $300,200.18; 1911, $308,168.05; 1912, $393,415.29.

In 1891 taxes received by the territory from railroads on Maui amounted to $71,936.10. In 1912 the taxes amounted to $309,936.34.

HOUSE SPEAKER HOLSTEIN IS HOST AT DINNER OF HARMONY

H. L. Holstein, House Speaker 1915.

Fun and Serious Talk Mingle as Colleagues and Others Enjoy Hospitality

How to preserve harmony in a mixed political body was told by several speakers at the banquet of Henry Lincoln Holstein, speaker of the house of representatives, to his colleagues of the lower body, Governor Pinkham, President Charles F. Chillingworth of the senate and other invited guests. The dinner was held in the Alexander Young hotel last night.

Mr. Holstein acted as master of ceremonies and the Royal Hawaiian band played on the roof garden at the start of the affair. The speaker called upon those around the board for a toast to President Wilson and as the toast was given the band played the "Star Spangled Banner."

At its conclusion the fun centered about Chaplain Kaullil at the makai end of the table. A liquid with a "stick" in it was poured into Mr. Kaullil's glass, while ginger ale was surrounded by the green glass at the plate of Interpreter Sheldon across the board. Kaullil was aware that Sheldon didn't drink liquors so when the linguist raised his glass, the chaplain followed his example. The mistake was soon noticed and immediately the minister was "subject to much joshing."

A toast was proposed by the toastmaster to Governor Pinkham and the executive was called upon for a talk. He pointed to the harmony which he said exists between the legislature, controlled by Republicans, and the Democratic governor, and expressed the wish that the harmonious relations would continue.

Delegate Kublo told of what he has accomplished in congress and of the many obstacles which he said he was forced to overcome to secure benefits from congress. Mayor Lane made a forceful address after a toast had been proposed to him. He took occasion to ask the governor to sign the loan fund bill so that the city water works will save some $105,000.

W. T. Rawlins told of his experiences in former legislatures and he was followed by Representative Norman Watkins. The latter's speech was brimful of wit and humor and he was referred to as "the Joe Cannon of the house."

"Here is hoping we will all be here as representatives of the people of Hawaii in 1917," said the speaker as the glasses were raised and the toast was given. Those present were H. L. Holstein, Governor Pinkham, Delegate Kalamianole, Mayor Lane, Charles F. Chillingworth, Norman Watkins, W. T. Rawlins, Ed Walaholo, E. J. Crawford, E. K. Fernandez, W. F. Crockett, Antonio Garcia, Henry Viera, J. K. Lota, R. J. K. Nawahi, J.
